Cause Celebration

Decked in their festive best, stars put on a happy face for Operation Smile's 2014 Smile Gala.

Among the A-listers who turned out for Operation Smile's annual gala, held at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, were actor David Charvet and his wife (and the event's emcee), Brooke Burke Charvet, along with honorees Access Hollywood anchor Billy Bush and Days of Our Lives Executive Producer Ken Corday. More than $1 million was raised for the 32-year-old international children's charity that has performed more than 220,000 free surgical procedures to repair cleft palates and other facial deformities. A silent auction and cocktail reception kicked off the event, which was followed by dinner, the program and a post-dinner raffle, which included gorgeous bespoke diamond jewelry by Le Dragon d'Or. NBC Entertainment's Jennifer Salke made a touching speech about her son, Henry, who was diagnosed with a cleft palate and made an astounding impact on Operation Smile, raising more than $100,000 through his own initiatives.

"I'm a guy, so I do my best to put on my best suit possible. This is Dolce Vita. I'll tell you the truth, though: I got it altered at Milt & Edie's over in Burbank. This guy Carlos did a great job. This used to be two sizes bigger—I lost a lot of weight. Every time that I come out of the dressing room when I go to see him, I give him a high-five because I know it's going to be good."

"I love BCBG. I also love Givenchy. ... I think the best thing is [something that is] affordable and fashionable."

"I don't see myself as a fashion guy. There are people on the show who usually do that for me, but if I had to choose I'd say Hugo Boss. Tonight I'm wearing Theory."

"I wish I could wear what I saw at the Oscar de la Renta runway [show] that just happened for fashion week. I fell in love with all of those dresses. Absolutely stunning, classic and breathtaking. [Tonight] I'm wearing Armani."

"Ted Baker has shown me a lot of love in the past. My go-to designer for these events, John Varvatos, fits me pretty well."
